

John 4:16

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Jesus saith unto her, Go, call thy husband, and come hither.

Analysis

Jesus' command 'Go, call thy husband' redirects conversation from physical to moral need, exposing her sin. This demonstrates that genuine gospel ministry addresses not just spiritual thirst but the sin that causes it. Conviction of sin precedes reception of grace in Reformed soteriology—we must know ourselves as sinners before embracing Christ as Savior.

Historical Context

In patriarchal first-century culture, a woman's male relative would typically represent her in significant conversations. Jesus' request appears conventional but actually exposes her marital irregularity.

Study Questions

1. Why must conviction of sin precede genuine conversion and satisfaction in Christ?
2. How does Jesus lovingly but directly address our specific sins rather than speaking only in generalities?
