

John 4:20

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Our fathers worshipped in this mountain; and ye say, that in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship.

Analysis

The woman raises the ancient dispute about worship location—Gerizim versus Jerusalem. This theological deflection is classic: when convicted of personal sin, we often shift to doctrinal debates. Yet Jesus will use her question to teach profound truth about worship in Spirit and truth, showing God's patience with our evasions.

Historical Context

Samaritans built a temple on Mount Gerizim (visible from Sychar) around 400 BC, destroyed by Jews in 128 BC. The controversy reflects the deep Samaritan-Jewish schism over proper worship location, a debate rooted in Deuteronomy 12 and differing textual traditions.

Study Questions

1. How do we sometimes use theological questions to avoid personal spiritual application?

2. What does Jesus' willingness to engage her deflection teach about patient evangelism?
