

John 4:35

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Say not ye, There are yet four months, and then cometh harvest? behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; for they are white already to harvest.

Analysis

Jesus' agricultural metaphor redirects attention from physical harvest ('four months, and then cometh harvest') to spiritual harvest—the Samaritans approaching are 'white already to harvest.' The fields (Greek: chōrai) may literally be the region (Samaria) and the people streaming toward them. God's sovereignty ensures harvest readiness according to His timing.

Historical Context

If this occurred around December-January (four months before Passover harvest), the spiritual harvest contrasts with winter fields. The 'white' may refer to the Samaritans' white garments or sun-bleached grain metaphorically.

Study Questions

1. How do we sometimes assume spiritual harvest follows our expected timeline rather than God's?

2. What 'fields white unto harvest' has God prepared around us that we fail to see?
