

John 4:37

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And herein is that saying true, One soweth, and another reapeth.

Analysis

The saying 'One soweth, and another reapeth' acknowledges different roles in gospel ministry. No worker accomplishes conversion alone—we stand in succession with those who preceded us and prepare for those who follow. This counters pride (we didn't do it all) and encourages faithfulness (our work matters even if we don't see harvest).

Historical Context

This proverb (cf. Job 31:8, Micah 6:15) typically had negative connotation (one person labors, another enjoys), but Jesus transforms it positively to describe cooperative kingdom work across generations.

Study Questions

1. How does recognizing we are part of a chain of gospel workers affect our ministry perspective?
2. What does it mean to faithfully sow even when we may not see the harvest in our lifetime?
