

John 5:13

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And he that was healed wist not who it was: for Jesus had conveyed himself away, a multitude being in that place.

Analysis

That the healed man 'wist not who it was' shows Jesus' quiet departure and lack of self-promotion. Jesus had 'conveyed himself away' (withdrawn) because of the crowd, avoiding both acclaim and premature confrontation. This demonstrates Christ's control over the timing of His conflicts and His disinterest in personal fame.

Historical Context

Jesus frequently withdrew from crowds after miracles (Mark 1:45, Luke 5:15-16). His departure here prevented the healed man from becoming a spectacle or Jesus from being immediately identified as the Sabbath 'violateur.'
