

John 5:43

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

I am come in my Father's name, and ye receive me not: if another shall come in his own name, him ye will receive.

Analysis

'I am come in my Father's name, and ye receive me not: if another shall come in his own name, him ye will receive.' Jesus came representing the Father; He was rejected. False messiahs came self-appointed; they were received. The irony exposes misplaced trust. Those who reject God's authorized representative accept self-authorized pretenders. History confirmed this—Bar Kokhba and others were followed while Christ was rejected.

Historical Context

Multiple false messiahs arose in Jewish history—Theudas, Judas of Galilee, Bar Kokhba. Despite lacking divine authorization, they gained followings. Israel rejected the true Messiah and received false ones. This pattern reveals the human tendency to prefer self-made religion over divine revelation.
