

John 6:39

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And this is the Father's will which hath sent me, that of all which he hath given me I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day.

Analysis

'And this is the Father's will which hath sent me, that of all which he hath given me I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day.' The Father's will is the Son's preserving of all given to Him. 'Lose nothing' is emphatic—complete preservation. Jesus guarantees resurrection for all the Father entrusts to Him. Divine election ('given me') meets human security ('lose nothing'). This grounds assurance in Christ's keeping power, not human faithfulness.

Historical Context

This verse is foundational for the doctrine of perseverance. Those given by the Father to the Son will be kept by the Son for resurrection. The security isn't in the sheep's grip but the Shepherd's. John 10:28-29 develops this theme further.

Study Questions

1. How does divine giving and Christ's preserving ground Christian assurance?

2. What comfort does 'lose nothing' provide for believers facing trials?
