

John 8:26

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

I have many things to say and to judge of you: but he that sent me is true; and I speak to the world those things which I have heard of him.

Analysis

Jesus indicates He has much more to say in judgment of them, but restrains Himself, speaking only what the Father gives Him to speak. This demonstrates both the severity of their sin (much could be said against them) and Christ's submission to the Father. True prophetic ministry speaks God's word, not personal opinion or vindictive accusation.

Historical Context

The restraint Jesus shows despite their unbelief and hostility demonstrates His mission: He came not to condemn but to save (John 3:17), though judgment results when salvation is rejected.
