

John 8:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Now Moses in the law commanded us, that such should be stoned: but what sayest thou?

Analysis

They correctly cite Mosaic law commanding stoning for adultery, but ignore that both parties should be punished. Their selective law enforcement reveals their true agenda - not justice but trapping Jesus. This illustrates how Scripture can be cited accurately yet applied hypocritically, a constant danger in religious communities.

Historical Context

Deuteronomy 22:22-24 prescribed death for adultery. Stoning was the common method for this and other capital offenses in Jewish law, though by Jesus' time such executions were rare under Roman rule.

Study Questions

1. How can Scripture be cited correctly yet applied wrongly?
2. What dangers arise when we enforce law selectively?
3. How do you ensure you apply God's Word consistently, not just when convenient?
