

Joshua 18:12

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And their border on the north side was from Jordan; and the border went up to the side of Jericho on the north side, and went up through the mountains westward; and the goings out thereof were at the wilderness of Beth-aven.

Analysis

Their border on the north side was from Jordan—Benjamin's northern boundary begins at the Jordan River, marking their eastern entry point. The border went up to the side of Jericho on the north side, passing the conquered city, then went up through the mountains westward into the central highlands. The goings out thereof were at the wilderness of Beth-aven defines the boundary's western terminus.

Jericho, Israel's first conquest, anchors Benjamin's territory. This reminds them perpetually of God's power and faithfulness. Beth-aven ('house of wickedness') may be a derogatory name for Bethel after its corruption (Hosea 4:15), showing how holy places can become defiled.

Historical Context

This boundary description follows ancient Near Eastern legal conventions, using landmarks and cities as reference points. Jericho's ruins served as a visible border marker. The wilderness of Beth-aven lay near Ai, scene of Israel's defeat due to Achan's sin.
