

Joshua 21:13

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Thus they gave to the children of Aaron the priest Hebron with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and Libnah with her suburbs,

Analysis

Thus they gave to the children of Aaron the priest Hebron with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer (חֶבְרוֹן עִיר מִקְלַט הָרֹצֵחַ, Chevron ir miklat harotzeach)—The Aaronic priesthood received Hebron, one of six arei miklat (cities of refuge) where those guilty of manslaughter could flee from the blood avenger. Hebron held profound patriarchal significance as Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob's burial place (Genesis 23:19; 49:29-32). That the holiest priestly lineage received this most sacred ancestral site demonstrates divine intentionality.

Libnah with her suburbs (לִבְנָה וְאֶת־מִגְרָשָׁהּ, Livnah ve'et-migrashehah)—The term migrash refers to open pastureland surrounding the city (Numbers 35:2-5), ensuring Levites had grazing land despite owning no territorial inheritance. This fulfilled God's specific provision: "the Levites shall have no part among you; for the priesthood of the LORD is their inheritance" (Joshua 18:7).

Historical Context

Hebron, located 19 miles south of Jerusalem at 3,040 feet elevation, was ancient Kiriath-arba (Joshua 14:15). Archaeological evidence shows continuous occupation from the Bronze Age. The Cave of Machpelah there remains sacred to Judaism, Christianity, and Islam. Libnah was a Canaanite royal city conquered in Joshua's southern campaign (Joshua 10:29-32), likely Tell Bornat or Tell es-Safi.

Study Questions

1. How does Hebron's dual role as priestly city and city of refuge picture Christ as both our High Priest and refuge from judgment?
2. What does the provision of pastureland (migrash) teach about God's care for those in full-time ministry?
3. Why is it significant that the priests received cities rather than agricultural land like other tribes?
