

Joshua 24:27

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And Joshua said unto all the people, Behold, this stone shall be a witness unto us; for it hath heard all the words of the LORD which he spake unto us: it shall be therefore a witness unto you, lest ye deny your God.

Analysis

And Joshua said unto all the people, Behold, this stone shall be a witness unto us; for it hath heard all the words of the LORD which he spake unto us—Joshua personifies the stone: it hath heard (shamea, הָעָמַד). Though inanimate, the stone 'testifies' by its presence. It shall be therefore a witness unto you, lest ye deny your God—the monument prevents covenant amnesia.

Creation bears witness to God (Psalm 19:1-4, Romans 1:20). Even stones can 'cry out' (Luke 19:40). Joshua's logic: if a stone remembers, how much more should living people? This witness stands lest ye deny (pen tekachashun, פֶּן תַּקְאַשׁוּן, 'lest you deceive/lie to') God—apostasy equals lying to the One who saved you.

Historical Context

Personifying witness-stones was common in ancient Near Eastern treaties. Hittite and Assyrian treaties invoked gods and natural elements as witnesses. Israel adapts this: not pagan gods but the true God, with creation as His witness stand. The stone stood for centuries, possibly until the Assyrian conquest.
