

Joshua 4:24

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

That all the people of the earth might know the hand of the LORD, that it is mighty: that ye might fear the LORD your God for ever.

Analysis

The miracle's purpose—"That all the people of the earth might know the hand of the LORD, that it is mighty: that ye might fear the LORD your God for ever"—has dual audiences: universal witness and Israel's reverence. God's mighty acts serve both evangelistic (showing His power to nations) and sanctifying (producing fear among His people) purposes. The comprehensive phrase 'all the people of the earth' shows God's concern extends beyond Israel to global gospel witness. Miracles demonstrate divine power, prompting both conversion and reverence.

Historical Context

The miracle's impact on surrounding nations is documented in 5:1—Canaanite kings' hearts melted hearing of the crossing. This terror aided conquest, as demoralized enemies faced Israel. Similarly, Rahab's confession (2:9-11) showed reports of God's works generating faith. This pattern continues—the church's testimony of God's saving work attracts some while hardening others. Miracles never merely display power but serve redemptive purposes in God's sovereign plan.
