

Joshua 6:24

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And they burnt the city with fire, and all that was therein: only the silver, and the gold, and the vessels of brass and of iron, they put into the treasury of the house of the LORD.

Analysis

The phrase 'even all the inhabitants of the country do faint because of us' reports Canaanite psychological collapse. The Hebrew מִן (mug—to melt, faint, dissolve) indicates complete demoralization—not mere anxiety but absolute terror rendering them incapable of effective resistance. This fulfills God's promise: 'I will send my fear before thee, and will destroy all the people to whom thou shalt come' (Exodus 23:27). The conquest succeeds not through Israel's military superiority but through God-induced terror. This pattern repeats: 'the fear of you and the dread of you shall be upon every beast of the earth' (Genesis 9:2); 'the dread of thee shall be upon all the land' (Deuteronomy 2:25). God fights for Israel by supernatural means, breaking enemy will to resist. The phrase 'because of us' might suggest human causation, but context makes clear it's because of what God did through Israel (Red Sea, Amorite kings). This teaches that Christian witness carries supernatural power—not our eloquence but God's Spirit convicting the world (John 16:8). We are agents; God is actor.

Historical Context

Canaanite city-states existed in a fragile political equilibrium—Egyptian hegemony had weakened, leaving a power vacuum. The arrival of a unified, divinely-led Israel fundamentally destabilized this system. Canaanite religion centered on fertility deities (Baal, Asherah) who supposedly controlled nature and ensured prosperity. Israel's God demonstrated power over creation itself (Red Sea, Jordan River), undermining confidence in Canaanite deities. The psychological impact was profound—if their gods couldn't protect them from Israel's God, why resist? This demoralization explains the rapid conquest of Canaan. Archaeological evidence shows many cities fell without prolonged sieges, consistent with defenders whose morale had collapsed. Rahab's testimony (2:11) that 'our hearts did melt' wasn't isolated—the entire region experienced this terror. God's strategy often includes psychological and spiritual warfare preceding physical conflict, ensuring victory belongs to Him.
