

Judges 6:11

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And there came an angel of the LORD, and sat under an oak which was in Ophrah, that pertained unto Joash the Abiezrite: and his son Gideon threshed wheat by the winepress, to hide it from the Midianites.

Analysis

After the prophet's rebuke, the narrative shifts to Gideon's introduction through an angelic visitation. The Angel of the LORD (mal'ak Yahweh, מַלְאֲכֵי יְהוָה) is a divine theophany—God Himself appearing in visible form (verse 14 identifies Him as Yahweh directly). He sits under the oak in Ophrah belonging to Joash the Abiezrite, Gideon's father. The detail about the oak (elah, אֵלָה) suggests a known landmark, possibly associated with previous worship or significant events. Gideon is threshing wheat in the winepress—an unusual location revealing the depths of Midianite intimidation. Winepresses were typically in valleys, partially underground, offering concealment that outdoor threshing floors couldn't provide.

Historical Context

The Angel of the LORD appears throughout the Old Testament (Genesis 16:7, 22:11, Exodus 3:2) in theophanies that Reformed theology generally interprets as pre-incarnate appearances of Christ. Ophrah's location in Manasseh territory placed it in the path of Midianite raids from the east. Abiezer was a clan within Manasseh (Joshua 17:2, Numbers 26:30). Threshing normally occurred on elevated, open threshing floors where wind could separate chaff from grain, but fear drove Gideon to hidden, inefficient winepress threshing.

Study Questions

1. How does the Angel of the LORD's appearance to fearful Gideon demonstrate God's grace in seeking out the weak and fearful?
2. What activities in your life are you 'hiding in a winepress'—doing fearfully and inefficiently because of intimidation?
3. How does God's initiative in calling Gideon (rather than Gideon seeking God) illustrate the doctrine of divine election?
