

Judges 7:11

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And thou shalt hear what they say; and afterward shall thine hands be strengthened to go down unto the host. Then went he down with Phurah his servant unto the outside of the armed men that were in the host.

Analysis

Gideon and Phurah descend to the 'armed men that were in the host'—literally the 'extremity of the armed men' (qetseh hachamushim, קְצָה הַחֲמָשִׁים), suggesting they approached the outer perimeter where guards were posted. This was the most dangerous position—nearest to sentries and fighting men. Their willingness to approach this close demonstrates growing courage despite fear. The positioning sets up the providentially-timed dream conversation they're about to overhear.

Historical Context

Military camps in the ancient Near East arranged forces with elite troops or guards on the perimeter for security. The 'armed men' were likely the professional warriors or best-equipped soldiers rather than the general mass of raiders. Camp perimeters posted watches through the night in shifts, with guards responsible for detecting approaching enemies. That Gideon could approach close enough to overhear conversation suggests either inadequate security or divine blinding of the guards.

Study Questions

1. How does Gideon's obedience despite fear demonstrate that courage isn't absence of fear but action despite it?
2. What does approaching the enemy's strongest position teach about confronting spiritual battles at their source rather than peripherally?
3. How does having a faithful companion (Phurah) parallel the principle of going two-by-two in ministry (Luke 10:1, Mark 6:7)?
