

Luke 1:19

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And the angel answering said unto him, I am Gabriel, that stand in the presence of God; and am sent to speak unto thee, and to shew thee these glad tidings.

Analysis

---

Gabriel's self-identification—"I am Gabriel, that stand in the presence of God"—establishes his authority as God's messenger. The perfect tense 'parestekos' (stand) indicates continuous standing in God's immediate presence, emphasizing his role as divine spokesman. Gabriel's mission 'to shew thee these glad tidings' reveals the gracious character of divine revelation—God condescends to inform His servants of His purposes. The rebuke implicit in Gabriel's response teaches that demanding signs when God has spoken clearly dishonors His word. God's word itself should be sufficient evidence.

Historical Context

Gabriel ('strength of God') appears in Daniel's prophecies (Dan 8:16; 9:21) and here announces both John and Jesus's births. His role as messenger of crucial redemptive announcements underscores the significance of these events in salvation history.

Study Questions

1. Why should God's word through His appointed messenger be sufficient without additional signs?
2. What does Gabriel's continuous standing in God's presence teach about angelic service?
3. How should we respond when God speaks clearly through His word?
