

Luke 1:42

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And she spake out with a loud voice, and said, Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb.

Analysis

Elisabeth's Spirit-filled greeting proclaims Mary 'blessed among women' and 'blessed is the fruit of thy womb.' The term 'blessed' (Greek 'eulogēmenē,' εὐλογημένη) indicates divine favor and approval. Elisabeth's recognition of Mary's special status and the blessing of her child comes through prophetic insight—the Holy Spirit reveals what Elisabeth could not know naturally. This greeting echoes Jael's blessing (Judges 5:24) and anticipates Mary's Magnificat. The 'fruit of thy womb' language emphasizes Jesus' true humanity—conceived in Mary, genuinely human.

Historical Context

Elisabeth's greeting occurs during Mary's visit, immediately after conception. The formal blessing formula 'blessed among women' was traditional in Jewish culture for praising exceptional women. Elisabeth's immediate recognition of Mary's pregnant condition and the child's significance demonstrates supernatural knowledge—the Holy Spirit enabling prophetic insight. This scene establishes a pattern: the Holy Spirit reveals Christ's identity to those with spiritual sensitivity (Simeon, Anna, etc.) while others remain blind.
