

Luke 1:70

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

As he spake by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have been since the world began:

Analysis

God's speaking 'by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have been since the world began' establishes the continuity of redemptive revelation from creation onward. The phrase demonstrates that God's salvific purposes, now being fulfilled, were consistently proclaimed throughout Old Testament history. The designation 'holy prophets' emphasizes their divine authorization and the sacred character of their message. This verse supports the Reformed principle of the organic unity of Scripture—all prophets proclaim the same redemptive message pointing to Christ. Zacharias interprets Jesus's coming as fulfillment of all prior prophecy, not a new or separate plan.

Historical Context

From Genesis 3:15's first messianic promise through all subsequent prophets, God consistently revealed His redemptive plan. Zacharias, as a priest familiar with Scripture, recognized that recent events fulfilled this ancient, unified testimony. The phrase 'since the world began' emphasizes God's eternal purpose in redemption.
