

Luke 11:50

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

That the blood of all the prophets, which was shed from the foundation of the world, may be required of this generation;

Analysis

That the blood of all the prophets, which was shed from the foundation of the world, may be required of this generation (ἴνα ἐκζητηθῇ τὸ αἷμα πάντων τῶν προφητῶν τὸ ἐκκεχυμένον ἀπὸ καταβολῆς κόσμου ἀπὸ τῆς γενεᾶς ταύτης)—Jesus pronounces climactic judgment: ekzēteō (required, demanded) suggests judicial reckoning. The blood of 'all the prophets' shed apo katabolēs kosmou (from the foundation of the world) will be charged to tēs geneas tautēs (this generation). This generation's guilt encompasses all accumulated prophetic martyrdom.

This shocking verdict operates on covenant continuity—Jesus's generation represents Israel's final opportunity before destruction. Their rejection of Messiah completes Israel's pattern of prophetic rejection, bringing accumulated judgment. Matthew 23:36 parallels: 'All these things shall come upon this generation.' AD 70's temple destruction fulfilled this prophecy—the generation that rejected Christ witnessed Jerusalem's fall.

Historical Context

Jesus spoke this in approximately AD 30; Jerusalem fell in AD 70. The generation that heard Jesus preach witnessed catastrophic judgment—temple destruction, mass crucifixions, enslavement. Josephus's account of the siege confirms horrific fulfillment. The lawyers' unbelief culminated in national disaster, validating Jesus's prophetic warning.
