

Luke 15:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing.

Analysis

And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing (καὶ εὑρὼν ἐπιτίθησιν ἐπὶ τοὺς ὄμους αὐτοῦ χαίρων, kai heurōn epitithēsin epi tous ōmous autou chairōn)—The participle chairōn (χαίρων, rejoicing) modifies the shepherd's action: he carries the sheep while rejoicing. The lost sheep doesn't walk home in shame; the shepherd bears the burden. This images Christ carrying sinners, not condemning them (cf. Isaiah 53:6, 'the LORD hath laid on him the iniquity of us all').

The shoulders (ὄμους, ōmous) signify strength and honor—the priest carried the ephod with Israel's names on his shoulders (Exodus 28:12). The sheep is secure, positioned where it cannot fall. Joy precedes the homecoming celebration; the shepherd's delight is in the finding itself, not in subsequent praise from others. This is God's heart: He rejoices over you.

Historical Context

Shepherds in ancient Palestine carried exhausted or injured sheep on their shoulders, a common sight that made this image viscerally powerful to Jesus's audience. The posture demonstrated both the sheep's helplessness and the shepherd's strength. Lost sheep were often too weak or disoriented to walk home even when found. The shepherd's joy contradicts any notion that restoring wanderers is burdensome duty rather than delightful privilege.

Study Questions

1. How does the image of being carried on the shepherd's shoulders challenge the belief that you must 'clean up your life' before coming to God?
2. What does the shepherd's rejoicing while carrying the sheep (not after arriving home) reveal about God's immediate delight in finding you?
3. In what ways do you need to let Christ carry you rather than trying to walk home through your own effort?
