

Luke 4:2

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Being forty days tempted of the devil. And in those days he did eat nothing: and when they were ended, he afterward hungered.

Analysis

Jesus was tempted 'forty days' and 'did eat nothing: and when they were ended, he afterward hungered.' The 40-day period parallels Moses' 40 days on Mount Sinai (Exodus 34:28) and Elijah's 40-day journey to Horeb (1 Kings 19:8). Jesus' fasting demonstrates His complete dependence on God and His prioritization of spiritual sustenance over physical. The note that He 'hungered' afterward emphasizes His genuine humanity—He experienced real physical need and vulnerability, making His temptation genuine, not playacting. Yet even in weakness, He resisted sin.

Historical Context

Fasting was an established Jewish spiritual discipline for seeking God, expressing repentance, and preparing for divine encounter. Moses and Elijah's supernatural fasts (40 days without food or water) were exceptional, marking them as unique prophets. Jesus' fast placed Him in this prophetic tradition. The detail that hunger came 'when they were ended' suggests supernatural sustenance during the 40 days, similar to Moses and Elijah. This established Jesus as the ultimate prophet who mediates God's word more perfectly than even Moses or Elijah.
