

Luke 9:11

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And the people, when they knew it, followed him: and he received them, and spake unto them of the kingdom of God, and healed them that had need of healing.

Analysis

And the people, when they knew it, followed him—Despite Jesus's attempt to withdraw, the crowds tracked Him down. Their pursuit demonstrates hunger for His teaching and healing. And he received them (ἀποδεξάμενος αὐτούς, apodexamenos autous)—the verb indicates warm welcome despite His weariness and desire for solitude. Jesus's compassion overrode His need for rest (see Matthew 14:14: "he was moved with compassion toward them").

And spake unto them of the kingdom of God (ἐλάλει αὐτοῖς περὶ τῆς βασιλείας τοῦ θεοῦ, elalei autois peri tēs basileias tou theou)—Jesus's primary message was always the kingdom, God's sovereign rule breaking into history through the Messiah. The imperfect tense elalei ("was speaking") indicates extended teaching. And healed them that had need of healing (τοὺς χρεῖαν ἔχοντας θεραπείας ἰᾶτο, tous chreian echontas therapeias iato)—Jesus combined proclamation with demonstration, Word with deed. The kingdom brings both truth (teaching) and transformation (healing)—comprehensive restoration of fallen humanity.

Historical Context

The Sea of Galilee's geography made it difficult to find true solitude—the lake was only about 13 miles long and 8 miles wide, ringed with towns and villages. Crowds could easily track Jesus's movements by boat or on foot. The phrase "kingdom of God" was Jesus's central message, appearing over 100 times in the Gospels. It proclaimed that God's reign, anticipated in the prophets, was now arriving in Jesus's person and work—not yet fully consummated but decisively inaugurated.
