

Luke 9:26

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For whosoever shall be ashamed of me and of my words, of him shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he shall come in his own glory, and in his Father's, and of the holy angels.

Analysis

For whosoever shall be ashamed of me and of my words, of him shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he shall come in his own glory, and in his Father's, and of the holy angels. The verb epaischynthē (ἐπαισχυνθῇ, "be ashamed") indicates embarrassment or reluctance to publicly identify with Christ. Jesus distinguishes between mere intellectual assent and bold confession—saving faith confesses Christ openly (Romans 10:9-10). The phrase "me and of my words" (eme kai tous emous logous, ἐμὲ καὶ τοὺς ἐμοὺς λόγους) links Christ's person and teaching inseparably—rejecting His words rejects Him.

The consequence is reciprocal shame when he shall come in his own glory (en tē doxē autou, ἐν τῇ δόξῃ αὐτοῦ)—the parousia, Christ's second coming in unveiled divine majesty. The triple glory—his own... his Father's... the holy angels—emphasizes the cosmic magnitude of that day. Those who denied Christ to preserve reputation or comfort will face His denial before the Father (Matthew 10:32-33). This is the ultimate reversal: temporary shame for Christ yields eternal glory; avoiding shame now guarantees eternal disgrace.

Historical Context

In the first-century Roman Empire, confessing Christ as Lord was politically dangerous—'Caesar is Lord' was the required confession. Christians faced social ostracism, economic persecution, and potential execution. The temptation to hide faith or compromise doctrinally was intense. Jesus warns that temporary safety purchased through denying Him results in eternal condemnation. Early Christians understood this—ten of the twelve apostles suffered martyrdom rather than deny Christ. The church fathers like Polycarp declared, 'Eighty-six years have I served Him, and He has done me no wrong. How can I blaspheme my King who saved me?' Jesus' warning steeled believers for persecution.

Study Questions

1. In what situations are you tempted to remain silent about Christ or His teachings to avoid ridicule or rejection?
2. How does the certainty of Christ's glorious return in judgment motivate boldness in witness despite present opposition?
3. What does it mean practically to be unashamed of Christ's 'words' when specific biblical teachings are culturally offensive?
