

Luke 9:51

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And it came to pass, when the time was come that he should be received up, he stedfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem,

Analysis

---

Luke records: 'When the time was come that he should be received up, he stedfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem.' The phrase 'stedfastly set his face' (Greek 'to prosōpon estērisen,' τὸ πρόσωπον ἐστήρισεν) indicates firm, resolute determination—Jesus resolutely turned toward Jerusalem, knowing crucifixion awaited. The phrase 'received up' (Greek 'analēmpsis,' ἀνάληψις) refers to His ascension but encompasses the entire process—death, resurrection, ascension. Jesus deliberately, courageously walked toward suffering, not as victim but as willing sacrifice accomplishing redemption.

Historical Context

This verse marks a major transition in Luke's gospel—Jesus begins His final journey to Jerusalem, which occupies Luke 9:51-19:27 (often called 'the travel narrative'). Jerusalem was where prophets were killed (Luke 13:33-34), where the temple stood, where Passover lambs were sacrificed. Jesus' determination to go there, knowing He would be betrayed, tried, and crucified, demonstrates His obedience to the Father's will and His love for sinners. Isaiah prophesied the Servant would 'set his face like a flint' (Isaiah 50:7), which Jesus fulfilled. His resolute courage models faithful obedience despite knowing suffering awaits.
