

Mark 6:54

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And when they were come out of the ship, straightway they knew him,

Analysis

And when they were come out of the ship, straightway they knew him, 'When they were come out of the ship, straightway they knew him'—Jesus' fame made Him immediately recognizable. Despite attempted withdrawals for rest (v. 31-32), He couldn't escape crowds' notice. Their quick recognition demonstrated both His widespread reputation and people's eagerness to encounter Him. This sets stage for mass healing ministry (vv. 55-56), showing Christ's compassion despite personal exhaustion.

Historical Context

---

Jesus' recognizability indicated His fame spread throughout region. In close-knit village society, word of mouth traveled quickly. Distinctive teachers often gained recognition by appearance, teaching style, or accompanying disciples. The 'straightway' (εὐθὺς, euthys) recognition suggests either people were watching for Him or His presence was immediately reported through social networks.
