

Matthew 10:32

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven.

Analysis

Jesus' promise 'Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I also confess before my Father which is in heaven' establishes the requirement and reward of public witness. 'Confess' (Greek: homologeō) means to say the same thing—agreeing with God's truth about Jesus regardless of consequences. Jesus promises to acknowledge such faithful witnesses before the Father—eternal recognition for temporal faithfulness. This incentivizes boldness despite persecution.

Historical Context

First-century confession of Christ could mean martyrdom under Roman persecution. The promise of Jesus' confession before the Father outweighs all earthly consequences. This confession isn't mere words but identification with Jesus despite social, economic, or physical cost.
