

Matthew 10:42

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And whosoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a cup of cold water only in the name of a disciple, verily I say unto you, he shall in no wise lose his reward.

Analysis

Jesus concludes with stunning assurance: 'whosoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a cup of cold water only in the name of a disciple, verily I say unto you, he shall in no wise lose his reward.' The diminishment from prophet to 'little ones' (μικρῶν/mikrōn) and from substantial hospitality to 'cup of cold water' emphasizes that no act of service, however small, goes unnoticed when done for Christ's sake. The phrase 'in the name of a disciple' is crucial—it's not random kindness but service rendered specifically because someone belongs to Christ. The double negative 'in no wise lose' (οὐ μὴ ἀπολέσῃ/ou mē apolesē) is emphatic: absolute certainty of reward. This verse demonstrates God's grace—He rewards even minimal service done in faith. It also democratizes ministry: not everyone can support prophets substantially, but anyone can offer basic kindness to Christ's followers.

Historical Context

In Palestine's arid climate, cold water was precious and refreshing—wells and springs were valued resources. Offering cold water to travelers was basic hospitality but required effort: drawing from wells, maintaining supplies. The 'little ones' likely refers to Jesus's disciples, not children—they were insignificant in worldly terms, possessing no wealth, power, or status. Early Christianity appealed largely to lower classes (1 Corinthians 1:26-29), so believers' acts of service often involved simple gifts like food, water, clothing. The promise of reward echoes Old Testament teaching that God notices every act of kindness (Proverbs 19:17, 11:24-25). This verse grounded countless acts of charity: monastics serving the poor, believers hosting persecuted Christians, believers sharing scarce resources.
