

Matthew 11:1

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And it came to pass, when Jesus had made an end of commanding his twelve disciples, he departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities.

Analysis

After commissioning the Twelve, 'Jesus departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities' (μετεβη εκειθεν του διδασκειν και κηρυσσειν εν ταις πολεσιν αυτων). Jesus doesn't cease ministry while sending disciples; He multiplies it. 'Their cities' refers to Galilean towns where He ministered. 'Teach' (διδασκειν) and 'preach' (κηρυσσειν) represent comprehensive ministry: instruction and proclamation. This models ministry multiplication: Jesus delegates to the Twelve while continuing His own work. The kingdom advances through both personal ministry and trained workers. Effective leadership develops others while maintaining personal engagement.

Historical Context

Galilean ministry centered in synagogues where Jesus taught Scripture and proclaimed the kingdom. His itinerant pattern visited multiple towns, maximizing gospel reach. Early church continued this multiplication model: apostles established churches while continuing missionary journeys. Paul trained Timothy and Titus while planting new churches. This pattern—personal ministry plus trained workers—characterized effective gospel expansion throughout church history.
