

Matthew 13:25

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way.

Analysis

While men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat (ἡλθεν αὐτοῦ ὁ ἔχθρος καὶ ἐπέσπειρεν ζιζάνια)—zizania refers to bearded darnel (Lolium temulentum), a weed virtually indistinguishable from wheat until grain heads form. The enemy (ὁ ἔχθρος) is Satan (v. 39), who deliberately counterfeits God's work. This isn't accidental contamination but intentional sabotage.

The nighttime sowing emphasizes stealth and evil intent—in Roman law, sowing another's field with weeds was a recognized crime. Satan's tares are false converts, counterfeit Christians who look genuine until tested. The timing while men slept warns against pastoral negligence; false teaching infiltrates when leaders aren't vigilant (Acts 20:28-31). The coexistence of wheat and tares until harvest describes the church age—true and false believers intermixed until final judgment.

Historical Context

Bearded darnel was Palestine's most troublesome agricultural weed, toxic when consumed. Its seeds closely resembled wheat until maturity, making early identification nearly impossible. Roman legal codes included penalties for criminal 'oversowing' of enemy fields with darnel. Jesus's parable reflects real agricultural sabotage, making the illustration immediately comprehensible to farming communities.
