

Matthew 13:46

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it.

Analysis

Who, when he had found one pearl of great price (ἓνα πολύτιμον μαργαρίτην, hena polytimon margaritēn—'one very precious pearl'), went and sold all that he had, and bought it. This is the second 'hidden treasure' parable (cf. v. 44), but with key differences: the merchant was actively searching (v. 45), whereas the first man stumbled upon treasure. Both, however, joyfully sacrifice everything for surpassing value.

The kingdom's worth demands total commitment—no half-hearted discipleship. Some interpret the merchant as Christ purchasing the church (pearl) at infinite cost (His blood), but context suggests the seeker is the believer recognizing the kingdom's supremacy and surrendering all (Luke 14:33, Philippians 3:7-8). The singularity—one pearl—emphasizes the kingdom's uniqueness: nothing rivals Christ's worth.

Historical Context

Pearls were the most valuable gems in the ancient world (beyond gold or silver), sourced from the Red Sea, Persian Gulf, or Indian Ocean through dangerous diving. For Jesus's audience, a 'pearl of great price' represented incomprehensible wealth. Merchant trading in fine pearls would be a wealthy, knowledgeable expert—yet even he sells everything for one supreme find.

1. What 'all that he had' might Jesus be calling you to 'sell' to fully possess the kingdom?
2. Do you approach Christianity as one option among many, or as the pearl that relativizes all other values?
3. How does this parable challenge consumer Christianity that seeks Jesus's benefits without surrendering all?
