

Matthew 13:58

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And he did not many mighty works there because of their unbelief.

Analysis

And he did not many mighty works there (καὶ οὐκ ἐποίησεν ἐκεῖ δυνάμεις πολλάς)—Mark 6:5 intensifies this: 'He could do no mighty work there' (οὐκ ἐδύνατο...ποιῆσαι οὐδεμίαν δύναμιν), except healing a few sick. This doesn't limit Christ's power but shows His refusal to perform miracles where they would be spurned. The δυνάμεις (dynameis, 'mighty works, miracles') testified to His messianic identity (Matthew 11:20-24), but without receptive faith, miracles produce only greater judgment (Luke 10:13-15).

Because of their unbelief (διὰ τὴν ἀπιστίαν αὐτῶν)—The noun ἀπιστία (apistia) means 'faithlessness, refusal to believe' despite adequate evidence. This wasn't mere ignorance but willful rejection. Miracles don't create faith; they confirm faith and accredit messengers (John 10:37-38). Where unbelief reigns, Christ often withdraws demonstration of power—not because He cannot act, but because He will not cast pearls before swine (Matthew 7:6). Unbelief limits not God's power but our reception of His blessing.

Historical Context

This episode marks a pivotal shift in Jesus's ministry. After Nazareth's rejection (ca. AD 28-29), Jesus intensified focus on the Twelve (Matthew 10) and began teaching more privately. The pattern of Jewish rejection and Gentile reception becomes increasingly prominent. Nazareth's unbelief despite Jesus's upbringing among them demonstrated the depth of human depravity and the necessity of divine grace for faith (John 6:44).

Study Questions

1. How does persistent unbelief in your life limit your experience of Christ's transforming power?
2. Why doesn't God overwhelm human unbelief with undeniable miracles if He desires all to be saved (2 Peter 3:9)?
