

Matthew 15:23

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But he answered her not a word. And his disciples came and besought him, saying, Send her away; for she crieth after us.

Analysis

But he answered her not a word (ὁ δὲ οὐκ ἀπεκρίθη αὐτῇ λόγον, ho de ouk apekrithē autē logon)—Christ's silence toward the Canaanite woman's plea seems harsh, even cruel. Yet this wasn't rejection but testing, drawing out faith through resistance. The phrase 'not a word' emphasizes complete silence—no acknowledgment, no comfort, no immediate help.

Jesus's silence served multiple purposes: it tested the woman's persistence, revealed her genuine faith, instructed the disciples about grace transcending ethnic boundaries, and demonstrated that apparent divine silence doesn't equal divine indifference. Sometimes God's greatest blessings follow his most profound silences, refining desperation into unshakeable faith.

Historical Context

This Canaanite woman was a Gentile from the region of Tyre and Sidon (v. 21), ancient Phoenician cities with a history of paganism and opposition to Israel. The disciples' response—'Send her away; for she crieth after us'—reveals their Jewish prejudice. Jesus's ministry was primarily to 'the lost sheep of the house of Israel' (v. 24) during his earthly ministry, with the full inclusion of Gentiles coming after Pentecost. Yet even during this 'Jewish phase,' Jesus showed that faith transcends ethnicity.
