

Matthew 17:4

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Then answered Peter, and said unto Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

Analysis

Peter's proposal to build three tabernacles reveals misunderstanding of the moment's significance. He treats Jesus as equal with Moses and Elijah rather than recognizing His supremacy. The suggestion to preserve this experience through building structures shows human tendency to institutionalize divine encounters rather than submit to God's purposes. Peter's 'it is good for us to be here' prioritizes comfort over mission—they must descend the mountain to accomplish Jesus' redemptive work.

Historical Context

The 'tabernacles' (Greek 'skenai') Peter proposed recall the Feast of Tabernacles, commemorating wilderness wandering and anticipating messianic kingdom. Peter may have thought the kingdom was arriving immediately. His suggestion to honor all three equally missed Jesus' unique role. The Father's voice (v. 5) corrects this misunderstanding, commanding attention to Jesus alone.
