

Matthew 2:20

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Saying, Arise, and take the young child and his mother, and go into the land of Israel: for they are dead which sought the young child's life.

Analysis

The phrase 'they are dead which sought the young child's life' echoes Exodus 4:19 when God told Moses to return to Egypt, creating a typological parallel between Moses and Christ. Both were deliverers threatened by infanticide, preserved by God's providence. This connection reinforces Christ as the greater Moses who leads God's people from bondage to sin and death.

Historical Context

The parallel to Moses strengthens Matthew's presentation of Jesus as the new and greater deliverer. Just as Moses brought Israel from physical bondage in Egypt, Jesus brings spiritual deliverance from sin.
