

Matthew 22:44

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footstool?

Analysis

Jesus quotes Psalm 110:1: 'The LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footstool.' This crucial messianic text reveals Christ's divine sonship, exaltation, and coming victory. 'The LORD' (Yahweh) addresses 'my Lord' (Adonai—Messiah), inviting Him to the place of highest honor (right hand). The session at God's right hand shows Christ's finished atoning work and present intercession. The promised subjugation of enemies points to final judgment.

Historical Context

Psalm 110, written by David, prophesies Messiah's exaltation and priestly kingship. New Testament authors cite verse 1 more than any Old Testament text, applying it to Jesus' ascension and session at the Father's right hand (Acts 2:34-35, Hebrews 1:13). The 'right hand' symbolizes authority and honor—Jesus reigns until all enemies submit.
