

Matthew 24:44

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Therefore be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh.

Analysis

Jesus' warning 'Therefore be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh' reiterates the need for constant readiness. 'Be ready' means living in a state of spiritual preparedness—right relationship with God, faithful service, holy living. 'In such an hour as ye think not' warns against assuming delay or predicting timing. Christ comes unexpectedly, catching the unprepared by surprise. Readiness isn't last-minute cramming but ongoing faithfulness.

Historical Context

The following parables (wise/foolish virgins, talents, sheep/goats) illustrate readiness versus unpreparedness. Readiness means genuine faith producing faithful works, not mere profession. The unexpected timing tests whether disciples serve from love or merely fear consequences. True readiness reflects transformed character, not external conformity.
