

Matthew 25:10

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came; and they that were ready went in with him to the marriage: and the door was shut.

Analysis

And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came; and they that were ready went in with him to the marriage: and the door was shut (κέκλεισται, kekleistai—perfect passive, 'stands shut' with permanent results). The timing is devastating: the foolish leave to seek oil, and in their absence the bridegroom arrives. They that were ready (αἱ ἑτοίμοι, hai hetoimoi)—the prepared ones—enter the wedding feast.

The closed door is final. Perfect tense emphasizes permanence: once shut, it remains shut. This depicts the eschatological finality of Christ's return: no second chances, no appeals, no entry after the fact. Readiness is determined before the Bridegroom's arrival, not after. The 'marriage' (γάμος, gamos) is the Lamb's wedding supper (Revelation 19:7-9)—eternal fellowship with Christ reserved for those found ready, those possessing the Spirit's indwelling reality.

Historical Context

Once ancient wedding feasts began, latecomers were excluded—admission was only for invited, prepared guests. The shut door protected the celebration's sanctity and prevented disruptions. Jesus uses this cultural detail to illustrate the irreversible nature of final judgment: opportunities end, mercy's door closes, and only the prepared enter eternal rest.

Study Questions

1. What does it mean to be 'ready' when the Bridegroom comes—how do you cultivate lasting preparedness?
2. How should the finality of the 'shut door' affect your urgency in evangelism and personal discipleship?
3. Are you living as though the door remains open indefinitely, or with sober awareness that it will shut—perhaps soon?
