

Matthew 26:21

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And as they did eat, he said, Verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me.

Analysis

One of you shall betray me (εἰς ἐξ ὑμῶν παραδώσει με, heis ex hymōn paradōsei me)—The verb paradidōmi means 'hand over, deliver up,' the same word used for God delivering up Christ (Romans 8:32). Jesus's announcement shatters the Passover's joyful atmosphere. His verily (ἀμήν, amēn) adds solemn certainty to this shocking revelation.

This betrayal comes during yachad (fellowship), fulfilling Psalm 41:9: mine own familiar friend, in whom I trusted, which did eat of my bread, hath lifted up his heel against me (quoted in John 13:18). The intimacy of shared bread makes betrayal more heinous—covenant fellowship violated from within.

Historical Context

Betrayal during a shared meal was considered the ultimate violation of sacred hospitality in ancient Near Eastern culture. Eating together created a covenant bond of mutual protection and loyalty. Judas's willingness to betray Jesus immediately after sharing the Passover meal would have shocked contemporary Jewish sensibilities profoundly.

Study Questions

1. How does Jesus's foreknowledge of betrayal without preventing Judas's participation demonstrate divine sovereignty and human responsibility?
2. What does Christ's willingness to serve and eat with His betrayer teach about loving our enemies?
