

Matthew 26:58

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But Peter followed him afar off unto the high priest's palace, and went in, and sat with the servants, to see the end.

Analysis

But Peter followed him afar off unto the high priest's palace (Ο δὲ Πέτρος ἤκολούθει αὐτῷ ἀπὸ μακρόθεν ἕως τῆς αὐλῆς τοῦ ἀρχιερέως)—The imperfect ἤκολούθει ('was following') shows continued action—Peter didn't completely abandon Jesus. The phrase ἀπὸ μακρόθεν ('from afar, at a distance') reveals fearful caution. He wanted to know Jesus's fate but not identify with Him. Following 'from afar' characterizes compromised discipleship—close enough to observe but distant enough to deny association. This fulfilled Jesus's prediction (26:34) and set up Peter's denials (vv. 69-75).

And went in, and sat with the servants, to see the end (καὶ εἰσελθὼν ἔσω ἐκάθητο μετὰ τῶν ὑπηρετῶν ιδεῖν τὸ τέλος)—John 18:15-16 explains 'another disciple' (likely John) knew the high priest and got Peter admitted. Peter sat (κάθημαι, kathēmai) with the ὑπηρέτες (servants, attendants, officers)—warming by their fire (John 18:18), physically comfortable while Jesus suffered. The infinitive ιδεῖν τὸ τέλος ('to see the end, the outcome') shows Peter's motive: observation, not participation. He wanted to witness events without personal cost—impossible neutrality.

Historical Context

The αὐλή (courtyard) was open-air space within the high priest's house complex. Servants, guards, and staff gathered there, likely warming themselves (it was night, early spring—cold). Archaeological findings show wealthy Jerusalem homes had spacious courtyards with multiple rooms surrounding them. Peter's presence among enemies showed courage (he didn't flee completely) but his denials showed cowardice (he couldn't confess Christ publicly). This mixed state characterizes many disciples—genuine faith combined with fearful compromise.

Study Questions

1. In what areas of life do you follow Jesus 'from afar'—maintaining association but avoiding full identification?
2. How does Peter's warming by the enemy's fire while Jesus faced trial picture compromised discipleship seeking comfort while Christ suffers?
