

Matthew 27:44

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The thieves also, which were crucified with him, cast the same in his teeth.

Analysis

The thieves also, which were crucified with him, cast the same in his teeth (ἀνείδιζον, ὄνειδizon)—reproached him. Initially both criminals mocked Jesus (contrast Luke 23:39-43, where one repents). Even the dying, themselves under judgment, revile the Sinless One.

This detail emphasizes Jesus's total isolation: abandoned by disciples, rejected by Israel's leaders, mocked by passersby, reviled even by fellow condemned criminals.

I looked for some to take pity, but there was none; and for comforters, but I found none (Psalm 69:20). Total abandonment precedes the greater abandonment: My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? (v. 46).

Historical Context

That even condemned criminals mocked Jesus shows how thoroughly public opinion had turned. If one thief later repented (Luke), it was after extended time on the cross—perhaps hearing Jesus's prayer, 'Father, forgive them' (Luke 23:34).

Study Questions

1. What does the criminals' mockery reveal about human nature—that even the condemned condemn the innocent?
2. How does one thief's eventual repentance (Luke 23:40-43) demonstrate that it's never too late to turn to Christ?
