

Matthew 27:60

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And laid it in his own new tomb, which he had hewn out in the rock: and he rolled a great stone to the door of the sepulchre, and departed.

Analysis

Laid it in his own new tomb, which he had hewn out in the rock—Joseph gave Jesus his personal burial plot, a costly sacrifice as tombs took months to carve and represented family inheritance. The new tomb meant no other body had occupied it, emphasizing Christ's uniqueness and ensuring no confusion about whose body rose. He rolled a great stone to the door (προσεκύλισεν λίθον μέγαν)—circular stones weighing 1-2 tons secured wealthy tombs.

This detail becomes crucial: the massive stone required multiple men to roll uphill into sealing position. The mega lithon (great stone) made theft humanly impossible without detection. The sealed tomb became evidence—not a prison but a testimony. The same stone meant to keep Jesus in would prove he rose through it, not by human rolling away.

Historical Context

Rock-hewn tombs near Jerusalem were expensive, owned by wealthy families. They featured a small entrance sealed by a rolling stone in a groove. Some had antechambers for mourning. The tomb was near Golgotha (John 19:41-42), providentially located for quick burial before Sabbath. The location also fulfilled Isaiah's prophecy of burial 'with the rich.'

1. What did it cost Joseph to give up his family tomb for Jesus' burial?
2. How does the secured tomb strengthen rather than weaken the resurrection evidence?
