

Matthew 4:18

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And Jesus, walking by the sea of Galilee, saw two brethren, Simon called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea: for they were fishers.

Analysis

Jesus' call of fishermen beside the Sea of Galilee demonstrates God's sovereign election of ordinary people for extraordinary purposes. Simon and Andrew's occupation as fishermen becomes prophetic symbolism—they would become 'fishers of men,' gathering people into God's kingdom. The seaside setting also recalls Jesus' later parables about the kingdom being like a net gathering fish (Matthew 13:47-50).

Historical Context

The Sea of Galilee (also called Gennesaret or Tiberias) is actually a freshwater lake about 13 miles long and 8 miles wide. Fishing was a major industry, and fishermen formed a significant segment of Galilean economy. Simon (Peter) and Andrew were business partners with James and John (Luke 5:10).

Study Questions

---

1. What does Jesus' calling of common fishermen teach about God's values versus worldly measures of qualification and status?
2. How does the metaphor of 'fishers of men' illustrate the nature and urgency of evangelistic ministry?
