

Matthew 4:19

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And he saith unto them, Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men.

Analysis

Jesus' call 'Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men' transforms the disciples' occupation into a metaphor for evangelism. The promise 'I will make you' shows discipleship is a process where Christ shapes His followers. The shift from catching fish to catching men requires leaving former occupations and priorities—following precedes being 'made' effective.

Historical Context

Simon and Andrew were commercial fishermen on Galilee—hard, skilled work requiring strength and patience. Jesus' wordplay ('fishers' to 'fishers of men') gave dignity to their background while redirecting their skills. The immediate call required instant decision.

Study Questions

1. What does Jesus' call to 'follow' require you to leave behind?
2. How have you experienced Christ 'making' you into what He called you to be?
