

Matthew 4:6

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And saith unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down: for it is written, He shall give his angels charge concerning thee: and in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone.

Analysis

Satan correctly quotes Psalm 91:11-12 but distorts its application, demonstrating that Scripture can be misused when taken out of context or applied presumptuously. The psalm promises God's protection for those walking in His will, not for those testing Him through reckless acts. This shows that mere biblical knowledge or ability to quote Scripture doesn't guarantee sound doctrine—interpretation and application matter critically.

Historical Context

Psalm 91 is a confidence psalm celebrating God's protection of the faithful. Satan's misuse of it shows that even the devil can quote Scripture, but he does so deceptively, twisting God's promises to encourage sin rather than faith.

Study Questions

1. How does Satan's misuse of Scripture warn against proof-texting and taking verses out of context?
2. What is the difference between trusting God's promises and presumptuously testing God through reckless actions?
