

Matthew 7:17

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit.

Analysis

Good trees bear good fruit; corrupt trees bear corrupt fruit. This is natural law and spiritual law. A person's character determines their fruit. You can't produce righteousness from an unrighteous heart. This underscores the necessity of heart transformation, not just behavioral modification.

Historical Context

This principle refutes moralism (trying harder to be good) and legalism (external conformity). Jesus insists on heart change first—becoming a good tree—which then naturally produces good fruit. This points to regeneration and the Spirit's transforming work.

Study Questions

1. Are you trying to produce good fruit by willpower without cultivating a transformed heart?
2. What fruit in your life reveals what kind of tree (heart condition) you have?
