

Matthew 7:24

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock:

Analysis

Jesus concludes the Sermon on the Mount with a parable contrasting wise and foolish builders. The 'wise man' (φρόνιμος/phronimos) demonstrates practical wisdom by building on 'rock' (πέτρα/petra)—likely bedrock beneath surface soil. The phrase 'heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them' establishes the critical connection: wisdom isn't mere knowledge but obedient action. The present participles 'heareth' (ἀκούων/akouon) and 'doeth' (ποιεῖ/poiei) indicate continuous, habitual practice. Building on rock requires more effort—digging through soil to bedrock—but ensures stability when storms come. This parable warns against superficial discipleship that appreciates Jesus' teaching but doesn't submit to His lordship. True wisdom responds to revelation with transformation.

Historical Context

Palestinian builders faced seasonal torrents during rainy season. Sandy wadis (dry riverbeds) looked like solid ground in summer but became raging torrents in winter. Wise builders dug down to bedrock, while foolish ones built on convenient but unstable sand. Jesus' audience immediately understood the illustration. The Sermon on the Mount presented radical kingdom ethics—this parable warns that mere admiration without application equals self-deception. James echoes this teaching: 'be doers of the word, and not hearers only' (James 1:22).

Study Questions

1. In what areas of life are you hearing Jesus' words but not yet doing them?
2. What 'storms' have revealed the foundation of your faith—obedience or mere intellectual agreement?
3. How does this parable challenge modern tendencies toward consumeristic Christianity that values inspiration over transformation?
