

Micah 5:13

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Thy graven images also will I cut off, and thy standing images out of the midst of thee; and thou shalt no more worship the work of thine hands.

Analysis

Thy graven images also will I cut off, and thy standing images out of the midst of thee; and thou shalt no more worship the work of thine hands. God targets idolatry directly. "Graven images" (פסִילָה, pesilekha) are carved idols—statues, figurines representing false gods. "Standing images" (מַצְבּוֹתִים, matzevotekha) were sacred pillars or obelisks erected at pagan worship sites. Both violate the second commandment: "Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image" (Exodus 20:4). The phrase "work of thine hands" (מְעַשָּׂה יָדֶיךָ, ma'aseh yadekha) exposes idolatry's absurdity: humans create gods, then worship their own creations.

Isaiah 44:9-20 satirizes idol-making: a craftsman cuts wood, uses part for fire to warm himself and bake bread, then carves the remainder into a god and bows before it, saying "Deliver me; for thou art my god." The prophet concludes: "He feedeth on ashes: a deceived heart hath turned him aside." Psalm 115:4-8 mocks idols: "They have mouths, but they speak not: eyes have they, but they see not." Those who make them become like them—spiritually deaf, blind, and mute.

In Messiah's kingdom, idolatry is eradicated. Not merely external images but heart idols—anything displacing God as ultimate. Colossians 3:5 identifies covetousness as idolatry. Augustine observed humanity is incurably religious: we either worship the Creator or created things (Romans 1:25). The gospel transforms worshipers: we cease bowing to what we've made and worship the One who made us. True worship requires God's self-revelation in Christ, not human imagination projecting deity onto material objects.

Historical Context

Israel's idolatry began early: the golden calf (Exodus 32), Baal worship under the judges (Judges 2:11-13), Jeroboam's golden calves (1 Kings 12:28-30), Ahab and Jezebel's Baal temples (1 Kings 16:31-33), Manasseh's idols in the temple itself (2 Kings 21:7). Despite prophetic warnings, idolatry persisted until the Babylonian exile (586 BC). Ironically, exile cured Israel's idolatry—post-exilic Jews never again worshiped idols. By Jesus's time, Jewish opposition to idolatry was fierce (hence conflict with Rome's emperor worship). Yet Jesus identified a subtler idolatry: Pharisees worshiped tradition, rich young rulers worshiped wealth, crowds sought Jesus for bread, not truth (John 6:26). The human heart constantly manufactures idols. Christian history shows idolatry mutating: medieval veneration of relics, prosperity gospel's worship of wealth, cultural Christianity's nationalism. Every generation must heed: "Little children, keep yourselves from idols" (1 John 5:21).

Study Questions

1. What "graven images" or "standing images" (material possessions, status symbols, ideologies) function as idols in your life, displacing God from rightful supremacy?
2. How does recognizing that you worship "the work of your hands" expose the futility of trusting anything you've created or achieved for security and identity?

3. What practical steps can you take to identify and dismantle heart idols, ensuring God alone receives your ultimate allegiance and affection?
