

Numbers 16:29

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

If these men die the common death of all men, or if they be visited after the visitation of all men; then the LORD hath not sent me.

Analysis

Moses proposes a test: if the rebels 'die the common death of all men,' then God didn't send him. But 'if the LORD make a new thing' and earth swallows them alive, Israel will know 'these men have provoked the LORD.' The Hebrew 'beriah' (make new) indicates unprecedented creative miracle. Moses confidently invites divine vindication, certain of his calling.

Historical Context

No prior biblical account records earth opening to swallow people alive. This 'new thing' would unmistakably demonstrate God's judgment, removing any ambiguity about who truly represented divine authority.
