

Numbers 17:13

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Whosoever cometh any thing near unto the tabernacle of the LORD shall die: shall we be consumed with dying?

Analysis

Whosoever cometh any thing near unto the tabernacle of the LORD shall die: shall we be consumed with dying?—The rhetorical question (הָאֵם תִּמְנּוּ לִגְוֹעַ ha'im tamnu ligvo'a, 'shall we cease from dying?') expresses resignation to inevitable death. The phrase cometh any thing near (הִקְרַב הִקְרַב haqarev haqarev, double verb form) emphasizes any approach whatsoever to God's dwelling resulted in death for unauthorized persons.

This verse sets up God's answer in chapter 18—establishing priestly duties, tithes, and offerings to maintain sanctified access to divine presence. Israel's question 'shall we be consumed with dying?' receives God's response: 'No, but you must honor the priestly system I've established.' The New Testament fulfills this by Christ's once-for-all sacrifice opening the way into the Holy of Holies (Hebrews 9:11-12).

Historical Context

Chapter 18 directly responds to this verse's terrified question by delineating priestly and Levitical responsibilities that would protect the congregation from divine wrath. God's solution to Israel's fear was not abolishing holiness requirements but establishing proper mediatorial systems.
